Models of Historic Poznań - 25% discount

The Franciscan Church's vaults host 3 models: the model of historic Poznań, the model of first Piasts' town and the model of the Old Market Square. The first one depicts Poznań as presented in Braun-Hogenberg's picture of 1618. Built in the scale of 1:150 on an area of 50 sq. meters, the model is Poland's and in fact Europe's first historic city model offering such accuracy. The model contains more than 2300 structures. The second one shows the appearance of Poznań during the times of the first Piast dynasty rulers. The form and the arrangement of the settlement date back to the 11th century. In consideration of blind people, third model (1:100) has been made in the convex technique. The descriptions of the elements are in Braille.

Archaeological Museum - free entrance

Poland's only actual obelisk from ancient Egypt, tools used several thousand years ago by the first inhabitants of presentday Greater Poland, funerary urns in the shapes of faces - these are some unusual sights that can be seen in the Archaeological Museum in Poznan. This is one of the oldest, largest and most active museums in Poland. It presents five permanent exhibitions: Prehistory of Wielkopolska, Poland was established here, Death and Life in Ancient Egypt, Archaeology of the Sudan and North African Rock Art. These exhibitions are equipped with multimedia, some with touch panels and LCD screens. Some exhibits are interactive and visitors can try their hand at creating a rock art rite, assume the roles of archaeologists working on a dig or try on a real medieval knight's chain mail.

Archdiocesan Museum - free entrance

The museum resides in the 1520's building of the former Lubrański Academy. It presents religious art reflecting each individual era's understanding of beauty - from the Middle Ages until the modern times. One of the museum's assets is its Gothic art collection - the richest ensemble of sculptures and paintings from the 14th and 15th century in this part of Poland. Apart from the medieval art the museum holds a collection of modern Polish and European paintings, an interesting collection of textiles as well as silver and golden dishes (in Italian 'argenterie'). What makes this exhibition unique and memorable are everyday objects, now unused and partially forgotten.

Museum of Ethnography - free entrance

Ethnographic Museum is housed in the premises of the former Masonic lodge. This building, built in the years 1817-1819 is an example of late neoclassical architecture. The museum is surrounded by a historic park on the assumptions of the Baroque with preserved old trees. At its centre there is an ancient well from the seventeenth century. Collections and expositions introduce Polish cultural issues, the Wielkopolska region, as well as some distant and exotic territories.

The museum through their work tries to be a place of knowledge, discussion, reflection and exchange of different points of view. Currently, the museum organises an exhibition to celebrate 100 years of ethnographic collections in Poznań showing the most interesting sights in its possession.

Museum of Historical Costume - 30% discount

This Museum is the only museum in Poland entirely devoted to the history of clothing, fashion and the craft associated with it. Historical costumes and the history of fashion are an underrated source of information about the past. It can tell us much about the historical structure of the society and its customs. It is also intrinsically linked with the development of the craft and technologies affecting the production of garments. In the Museum of Historical Costume you can admire unique historical pieces of craft, from 18th-century fabrics to extraordinary dressers from the beginning of the 20th century. The exhibition is modified every year. Thanks to this, many different interesting and sometimes surprising subjects related to the history of clothing may be investigated and highlighted.

Museum of Musical Instruments - free entrance

Poznań's Museum of Musical Instruments is the only museum in Poland exhibiting both professional and folk instruments. Currently, the museum has over 3000 items, 500 of which are a part of the Museum's permanent exhibition. Each of the 16 galleries focuses on an area or phenomenon which is its principal theme. The first two levels guide visitors through selected issues from the history of European artistic music. The third level introduces musical traditions of various cultures of the world. Among the most interesting musical instruments in the Museum's collection is a violin which used to be owned by H. Wieniawski and a harpsichord which was played by the young W. A. Mozart and the son of J. S. Bach. Visitors can tour the museum with a multimedia guide on a tablet, which contains detailed information on selected pieces and samples of their sound.

Museum for Wielkopolska Martyrs Fort VII - free entrance

The museum is located in Fort VII - Colomb which during the Second World War became the first German concentration camp on Polish ground. It documents the martyrdom of the people of Wielkopolska, and collects all kinds of exhibits from that period. The museum has a vast collection of camp correspondence, drawings, photographs, the prisoners' personal documents as well as those issued by the German occupation authorities, and objects of everyday use, such as bread medallions, wallets, dictionaries, rosaries. The institution serves as an archive of prisoners' relations and creates personal files with the descriptions of the fates of the people who found themselves in Fort VII. The records, currently around 5000, largely including the photographs of the prisoners, are an important historical source.

Natural-Hunting Museum in Uzarzewo - free entrance

The Museum is located in Uzarzewo, about 15 kilometres from Poznań by the Piast Track. The historic castle and park complex includes two structures in its area. The mid-19th century palace houses the exhibition of forestry and hunting history since most ancient times: weaponry, hunting accessories and trophies. In the stable/carriage house the natural environment of Wielkopolska is presented as well as the fauna inhabiting it, with a special emphasis on wild game. In 2004, a new exposition has been commissioned – Adam Smorawiński's hunting trophies. The collection includes trophies of wild game from all parts of the world and has been located in the exhibition hall founded by the hunter and donor himself. Another wing has been added to it in 2010. The pride of the collection is the so called 'Great African Five' (a lion, an elephant, a rhinoceros, a leopard and a buffalo).

Museum of Armaments - free entrance

The Museum of Arms is located on the premises of the former Fort Winiary (the Poznań Citadel), which was built by the Prussians from 1828 to 1842. Today's form of the Citadel dates back to the 1870's. At that time, the Citadel became a key part of the fortifications ring that surrounded the city. The Museum is housed in a Military Laboratory bunker added on in 1872. The bunker, which has survived as it was originally built, houses a display of militaries, documents, photographs, maps and items recovered from the Poznań fortifications. The biggest attraction of its permanent exhibition are its outdoor displays of military equipment featuring over a dozen military vehicles, nine air planes, two helicopters, five tanks, as well as numerous canons and mortars. The oldest items date back to the early 19th century.

Archaeological Reserve Genius loci - free entrance

This is the only exhibition of this type in Poland, where visitors can feel like archaeologists. Modern architecture houses an original archaeological site, upon entering which you will be able to see medieval engineering: relics of fortifications made of wood and earth in the 10th century by settlers under the first members of the Piast dynasty as well as gothic walls of the bishops' district. It is only here that you will be able to see authentic archaeological artifacts uncovered on the Cathedral Island and in the Śródka district and the faces of the first dwellers of Poznań, whose appearance was reconstructed by anthropologists. The tour of the Archaeological Reserve includes a visit to the Most Blessed Virgin Mary Church, with the viewing of the oldest palas of Mieszko I and the first Polish shrine, the Duchess Doubravka's chapel.

Wielkopolska Military Museum - free entrance

In the southern part of the Market Square, in post-war annexes, there is the Wielkopolska Military Museum. Built in 1919, destroyed during WWII, the museum is rebuilding its collection, working since 1957. The museum's permanent exhibition is devoted to the history of Polish weaponry and includes the Polish Army uniforms, side arms, firearms and polearms, protective armours and military equipment from the 10th to the 20th century as well as battle scenes. One of the museum's most valuable exhibits is a 16th century rapier sword with a Milan- forged hilt. The jewel of the collection however is a bechter (type of plated mail) forged in 1580 in Poznań, and embroidered with the city insignia on the backplate.

Castle in Kórnik - discounted ticket

Castle in Kórnik is located some 30 km south-east of Poznań. It is actually a well-preserved lordly residence converted to the Neo- Gothic Romantic style in the early 19th century. The Castle houses many unique exhibits. Its interiors contain furniture of various styles from many different periods, paintings by Polish and European masters, sculptures, antique coin collections, Polish and eastern militaria, china and silver handworks and ethnographic and natural collections from Australia and Oceania. In the night, as legend has it, roaming in the Castle's park and chambers is Teofila Szoldrska-Potulicka nee Działyńska, dubbed the 'White Lady'. Located next to the Castle is a Kórnik Arboretum featuring some 3,000 species and varieties of trees and shrubs, some of which are the most peculiar specimens one could ever imagine.
